Transitional Assistance & Design Team to Collect Items for Manna's Annual Food Drive

Team Members Participate in Metro DC Area's Largest Food Drive This Fall

Gaithersburg, MD (November 1, 2011) – The Transitional Assistance & Design team will be collecting food items and making donations to Manna, Washington, DC's leading non-profit developer of affordable housing for ownership. Their efforts will help Manna provide food to families and households in need across the Greater Washington area. This is the second consecutive year the Transitional Assistance & Design team has partnered with Manna on a food drive initiative.

During November and December, Transitional Assistance & Design will be collecting non-perishable food items donated from its team members as well as from clients who are thinning out their home kitchens in preparation for a move.

The team will help collect and deliver donated food items to Manna during the holidays and plans to continue collecting donations and delivering items to Manna's warehouse throughout the next year.

The Transitional Assistance & Design team is one of the Washington metro area's most attentive and careful move services teams serving the community with over 400 moves or move-related projects every year.

"We are happy to continue supporting organizations like Manna that share our passion for helping others in our local community," said Susie Danick, founder and co-owner of Transitional Assistance & Design.

"I'm moved by the spirit of our team members who are out there easing the burdens of moving and move-related stresses to over 400 families every year, and are eager to give more of themselves and their time by contributing to community service efforts like this one with Manna."
